Supercourse promotes global health. Today, we need you to promote Supercourse's health with a generous donation to continue the program.

Supercourse has revolutionized the way health professionals around the globe share ideas. It is the world's leading source for timely, reliable health lectures for public health professionals, doctors and, increasingly, the media. Now in its sixteenth year, Supercourse has grown to 50,000 registered members in 174 countries. The service is free and open to everyone. Over 5,300 top quality lectures by professors, chairs, deans, Nobel Prize laureates, and members of the National Academies of Science are easily accessed on topics ranging from nutrition to nuclear contamination.

In 2012, we taught over 6 million people. Supercourse started an mHealth project to improve the health of homeless, developed a Central Asian Journal of Global Health (cajgh.pitt.edu) and created a Research Methods Help desk to increase scientific publications from developing countries.

Please help us continue this valuable service in 2013 by making a gift today of $20, $500, $5000 or more.
